

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

The invention provides a container enclosing an applicator and a dental composition including a volatile organic solvent. The container is sealed. The volatile organic solvent is effectively retained within the container, even after storage at about 43°C for one week. Preferably the container is made of a copolymer of a cycloolefin and an open chain olefin.